

Zoie Health

Caring for Women in Africa

The Zoie+ Emergency Panic Button

Panic button for medical and security emergency services

A silhouette of a family of five (father, mother, and three children) holding hands and standing on a grassy hill against a vibrant sunset sky with purple and orange hues. The family is positioned on the left side of the image.

We can't talk about women's health without talking about women's safety

Why this matters to you

South Africa is in the top 5 countries with the highest rape, femicide and female assault statistics in the world

153 rapes are reported every day in South Africa

At least 7 women are murdered every day in South Africa

Approximately 51% of South African women over the age of 18 have experienced gender based violence

What we offer

Panic button for medical and security emergency services

Free optional trauma counselling post-incident

For every subscription, Zoie donates to a GBV crisis centre

